

ARPA Associate Member Benefits

ARPA provides many opportunities for associate members to network with producer members, share ideas, discuss their business, stay up to date on current events, promote their services, advertise their company, and provide education on technology. Examples of these opportunities include the following.

EVENTS

ARPA provides, or is affiliated with, several annual events that allow its members access to producers to build relationships, educate, provide solutions, network, and help build awareness of the benefits this industry brings to the community. The ARPA Convention, Golf Invitational, Holiday Luncheon, MSHA Spring Thaw, Arizona Construction Career Days, and Mining Day at the Capitol are staple events to participate in.

NETWORKING

ARPA designed special functions to allow for a more inclusive networking environment with producers and other decision makers at the state and municipal level along with regulatory agencies. These include, Meet the Producer breakfast, Associate Mixers, “The Rock” meet and greet with legislators, and ARPA committees.

ADVERTISEMENT

As part of membership services, ARPA provides a means to advertise your company profile and products/services to producer members and to a larger audience. Examples include: ARPA website directory, company spotlight on the website, company profile in the ARPA newsletter and on social media outlets. Other advertising opportunities include, the ENR Southwest magazine report on mining.

OTHER

Other member benefits include displaying your company information on the “ARPA Associate Wall”, sit on the Associate Committee, and sponsor educational seminars at the ARPA office.
